Name: Gen. John T. Chain

Air Force General John T. Chain Jr. had been commander in chief of the Strategic Air Command at Offutt Air Force Base for three years - and a general for only four - when his Face was unveiled. The one-time combat pilot with 5,000 flying hours arrived at the club protected by security detail. The former pilot also was a master parachutist with 66 jumps. He retired from the Air Force in 1991. Chain is shown emerging from the SAC Underground with a B1 bomber and B2 stealth bomber displayed. A formation of bombers flies overhead. Chain is wearing a yellow pilot's scarf and flight boots.
