Name: Don (The Fat Fox) Bryant

Assistant athletic director at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and long-time sports information director, Bryant was honored four days before Christmas. He is shown in the drawing holding a Husker press kit and a chicken labeled with the Huskers archrival name, "Sooners." ("Fox in the henhouse" is the pun). Bryant also was a Lincoln Star newspaper sports editor, as shown in the drawing. Among those invited to attend were Athletic Director Bob Devaney and head football Coach Tom Osborne. Bryant was set to serve as sports information consultant for the Olympics that would be held the next year in Los Angeles.
